Wilmington Nov. 25th 1894

My dear Mrs. Gray,

I think I must send you the inclosed to complete the set. Dr. Mallichamp is a very earnest and warm-hearted man, and just after the war, as before it, was as good a hater as could be found.

I duly received your kind note. I hardly go anywhere now of my own volition. When I do get off, it is generally as a more or less willing captive bound to some one's chariot. But I intend to "Strike for freedom" once of these days and then I am sure that centripetal influences will bring me to the centre of things which of course is near Boston. So I yet hope to give myself the pleasure of seeing you.

Mr. Sargent must have told you that Dr. Mellichamp ~~was~~ is "a charming man".

Very Respectfully & sincerely
Yours, J. W. Mauldy

Please do not take any trouble about sending the letter back or replying.
